LE GRIMOIRE D'ELFIE

Story: Christophe ARLESTON, Audrey ALWETT

Art: Cytros TREB & MINI LUDVIN

In the Corsican mountains, Elfie and her sisters return to their grandmother's native village, where they're welcomed with open arms. But Magda is tormented by phantom pain in her amputated leg. Elfie learns that Orso, a volunteer firefighter, once knew how to soothe her suffering. But now, he refuses to use his gift... Was he a sorcerer too? And if so, how can she convince him to become one again? With the help of a timid pig and some strong-willed grandmothers, Elfie investigates Orso and his mysteriously vanished brother...

LÉONARDE

Story: Isabelle BAUTHIAN

Art: Anne-Catherine OTT

A year after the peace between Humans, Wolves, and Foxes, Leonarde and her friends travel to Breitwihl. There, they discover that Foxes and Wolves live in harmony, but only out of self-interest. Under the yoke of a cruel Inquisitor, the Humans have persecuted the «Beasts» ever since the region was devastated by the disappearance of the Dwarves who supplied them with gold. Leonarde sides with the Beasts, while Eldorise believes that change must come from within, unaware of the plot hatched by the Fox Larsan and the Wolf Neshka...

IMAGINATION WITHOUT BORDERS

Led by Marc-Antoine Fleuret, Aventuriers d'Ailleurs opens its doors to talented authors from all corners of the world. Through the originality of their approach and perspective, they invite readers to explore their unique universes, folklores, and visions of our planet and the art of comics.

On the program are coming-of-age adventures set in distant lands and alternative ways of life, strange and fantastical tales, as well as reimagined and elevated adaptations of traditional Western folk tales. To deepen the experience, each volume is accompanied by an introduction to the author, their country, and the role comics play there.

Aventuriers d'Ailleurs offers us thrilling and meaningful journeys, presenting a fresh way to discover other worlds and lifestyles, far from clichés and preconceived notions. It's a tribute to tolerance and open-mindedness!

Art: Adrian HUELVA

Amir, a Syrian refugee who arrived in France a few months ago, meets Solange near the squat where he lives, who offers him shelter. He gradually discovers this new family: three children, the couple Solange and Jack, and a bitter, racist grandfather who runs a small restaurant with Héléna, Solange's sister. Wanting to be useful, Amir helps in the kitchen. A moving story alternating memories of his past and his new life, between love for Héléna and the struggle to obtain a visa.

LA CHAMBRE DES MERVEILLES

Story: Philippe PELAEZ

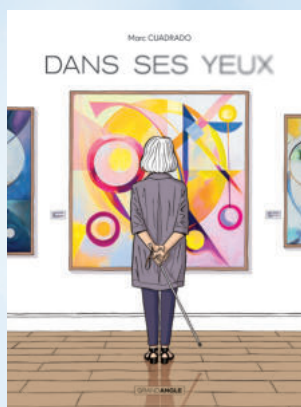

Art: Patricio Angel DELPECHE

Louis is 12 when a truck accident puts him in a coma. The prognosis is grim: without improvement, the respirator will be disconnected. Back home, his mother Thelma finds a notebook where Louis listed all the "wonders" he dreamed of experiencing. Thelma decides to live those wonders for him, hoping her stories will show him how beautiful life is and help him return—or, if he dies, that he will have lived his dream through her.

SOÀ

Story: Gérard COUSSEAU

Art: SHINJA

1886. On a small island in Brittany, a priest notices the exceptional intelligence of Soà, a young deaf girl, and convinces her father to send her to the mainland to study. Thus begins a difficult journey that will lead her to overcome the childhood trauma that caused her sensory loss. From rescuing shipwrecked sailors to fighting as a suffragette and helping Jewish families during the Second World War, Soà will defy fate and become a tireless defender of women's rights.
